Good morning Jennifer,

DNR's policy is to require the tenant to mark the boundaries of the property with piling monuments or other markers of a permanent nature. DNR will require the Tribe to mark the boundaries upon executing a lease agreement with them and that may require the Tribe to have their surveyor go out and install those markers.

All this being said, we will have the GPS/GIS technology available to us on the beach when we are out there next week which will give us a pretty good understanding of where the boundaries are.

Sean,

Is there any possibility that you guys could mark the corners of the lease while you are here for the site visit?

Thanks,

Jennifer

I just took a second look at my calendar and I will be out of the office on June 12th. Lorenz will be available. Please include him in your coordination for this visit.
Thanks,
Jennifer

habitat stewardship review. I'd like to invite both of you to attend this visit if you're available.

We are tentatively scheduled to be out there on Monday, June 12th. Low tide is a -1.1 at 11:49.

Please let me know if you're interested in attending and if this date will work for either of you.
