VOLUME 1

FRIENDS OF DUNGENESS NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

WINTER 2018

Significant Changes Proposed to Dungeness Recreation Area

Clallam County Parks is updating the master plan for the Dungeness Recreation Area. The preferred option presented at the March 6th meeting proposes adding approximately 44 new RV campsites and four cabins across from the existing group site in the only wooded area of the park. What impacts would the proposed plan have on wildlife and on the Refuge? You can learn more about the proposed changes and voice your opinion today by visiting the County's web site:

Friends Takes on Issues Affecting the Refuge and Its Critters

Margaret Maxwell, Refuge Protection Work Group Chair

There are many issues surfacing which affect Dungeness National Wildlife Refuge and its inhabitants. Here are the issues currently under consideration.

The Refuge Protection Work Group welcomes others to join in what we are doing. Any “meetings” we have are via email or over coffee.

Coastal Oil Drilling The Administration (D.C.) has proposed greatly expanding offshore oil and gas drilling. The Friends group, working with the Marine National Sanctuary Foundation, sent a statement opposing this expansion. The offshore islands which are a part of our Washington Maritime National Wildlife Refuge Complex would be in danger from drilling. The Governor is also working against offshore drilling.

Atlantic Salmon Net Pens Last fall the Friends sent a statement to Clallam County opposing the large net pen installation proposed for just west of Dungeness Spit. We feared for the harm it could do to our beautiful Refuge. Things happened and we now have legislation headed for the Governor’s desk which phases out Atlantic salmon net pens. Many thanks to our legislators, Senator Kevin Van de Wege and Representatives Mike Chapman and Steve Tharinger who worked and voted for the legislation. Particular thanks to Senator Van de Wege who was a sponsor of the legislation in the Senate. Thanks also to our partner the Wild Fish Conservancy who worked hard on this issue.

Oyster Aquaculture On Refuge Tidelands The Jamestown Tribe has submitted an application for oyster aquaculture in the tidelands of the Dungeness National Wildlife Refuge to Clallam County. Comments are due April 5th and the Friends group is currently studying the issue. Documents are available on the Clallam County Website: www.clallam.net CLICK HERE under the Department of Community Development.

Dungeness Recreation Area Clallam County is proposing major changes to the Dungeness Recreation Area, the county park next to the Refuge. Friends members attended a hearing last week. Comments are due by March 23rd. Information is available at: www.clallam.net/parks/DRAMP CLICK HERE

Migratory Bird Treaty The Administration (D.C.) is proposing drastic changes to the Migratory Bird Treaty. Changes would allow “incidental” killing of migratory birds which has not been allowed since the international treaty was enacted in the early 20th Century. National Audubon is the best source of information on this issue. CLICK HERE

The 2017 Volunteer of the Year: Grant Rollins

- Grant has been a volunteer since 2015. He and his wife Marlene were originally caretakers on Protection Island. As such they were ineligible for Volunteer of the Year award. After retiring from that job they moved to the area permanently and Grant began volunteering as a regular person.
- PI is still his passion, in fact Grant's family has history on the Island.
- Grant's help has been invaluable. For example, he researched the cost of laying an electrical cable from shore to PI and solar energy alternatives. He created an information packet to help us better understand the benefits and limitations of alternative energy.
- He helped build the new fire truck for PI and provided caretaker support on the Island in the absence of full-time caretakers.
- He also keeps the water tower full, and preps the bunkhouse and caretaker cabin for other users.
- Grant is fun to work with, available at a moments notice, extremely skilled, dependable, energetic, and creative.
- He doesn't just show up to give a hand, he provides great ideas, planning, and expert assistance. Grant works extremely hard and we rely on him very much.
- He's also committed to our mission and enjoys the Refuge's wildlife, and loves sharing his experiences with his grand kids.
- Grant is always ready with a smile and a witty sense of humor.
- Now in his 4th year, Grant has almost earned his 2,000 hour pin.
