I think the ACOE would see this as an aquaculture process and would require a permit before proceeding. I will call Pam Sanguinetti to confirm.

We are in agreement with this activity while we seek legal clarification on our jurisdiction. However, until that opinion is received no further activities indicating the start of a commercial operation will occur on this site.

Jamestown will be bringing some oysters bags and other equipment to the lease at the next low tide series which is about a week from now. This is by no means a commercial planting, we just want to start with a couple of small areas to get a feel of how the oysters will do. Hopefully DNR and the Wildlife refuge will be able address any concerns before we start planting. Please contact

Sean or me if you have any questions. Thanks.
