Howdy Bonnie - please see the attached slide for a comparison of management options available under endangered status vs what was available under different 10j's in the northern Rocky Mountains. Some key points are:

1. The Service is not reintroducing wolves. The state is mandated to reintroduce wolves by December 2023, and as such, the state is the lead for the reintroduction.
2. CPW requested reintroduced wolves be considered as an experimental population to provide increased management flexibility; the Service, in coordination with CPW, has begun the process to develop an experimental population rule and expects to complete this by December 2023
3. Any delay increases the potential that wolves may be reintroduced into CO as a federally endangered species rather than an experimental population.

If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to reach out to Nicole or I and we'd be happy to help or clarify (or even present) as needed. Thanks.

Good Morning Scott and Nicole,
I'm on the Ag committee for Club20 and was asked to give an update on wolves and the 10J status at the Club20 meeting July 28.....I've been buried under convention prep for my 94th annual CWGA convention July 20-21...so.....I'm struggling to keep up with everything.

Is it possible for you to share your Walden powerpoint with me to review, or send me an update summary to make sure I'm on point? If I could receive info July 13, I would really appreciate it.

Thanks for your help!
