Dear Mr. Throgmorton:

This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request dated January 30, 2024, in which you seek the following: Any and all documents and information related to the following statement: "it has been stated by multiple people that they had been threatened with being banned from the facility and their questions were not ultimately answered." This was stated on the second to last page of the December 18, 2023, letter sent by Justin Sexton, the Refuge Manager for the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge, to the Crab Orchard Recreation Association, Inc., d/b/a Blue Heron Campground and Marina. Please refer to tracking number noted above in communications regarding this request.

Response

In response to your request, eight pages are being released to you. Based on this office's review, we reasonably foresee that disclosure of certain information in documents that fall under this request would harm an interest protected by one or more of the nine exemptions to the FOIA's general rule of disclosure. Accordingly, from the responsive records, portions of one record are partially redacted pursuant to FOIA Exemption (b)(6), as described below.

Exemption 6 of the FOIA

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold "personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6). We are withholding two pages in part under Exemption 6.

The phrase “similar files” covers any agency records containing information about a particular individual that can be identified as applying to that individual. To determine whether releasing records containing information about a particular individual would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, we are required to balance the privacy interest that would be affected by disclosure against any public interest in the information.

Under the FOIA, the only relevant public interest to consider under the exemption is the extent to which the information sought would shed light on an agency’s performance of its statutory duties or otherwise let citizens ‘know what their government is up to.’ The burden is on the requester to establish that disclosure would serve the public interest. When the privacy interest at stake and the public interest in disclosure have been determined, the two competing interests must be weighed against one another to determine which is the greater result of disclosure: the harm to personal privacy or the benefit to the public. The purposes for which the request for information is made do not impact this balancing test, as a release of information requested under the FOIA constitutes a release to the general public.

The information that has been withheld under Exemption 6 consists of individual names, and we have determined that the individuals to whom this information pertains have a substantial privacy interest in withholding it. Additionally, you have not provided information that explains a relevant public interest under the FOIA in the disclosure of this personal information and we have determined that the disclosure of this information would shed little or no light on the performance of the agency’s statutory duties. Because the harm to personal privacy is greater than whatever public interest may be served by disclosure, release of the information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the privacy of these individuals, and we are withholding it under Exemption 6.

The undersigned is responsible for this partial denial. This response to your FOIA request was made in consultation with Eric Brekke, Attorney-Advisor, Office of the Solicitor, Northeast Region, U.S. Department of the Interior (Department).

Conclusion

For your information, Congress excluded three discrete categories of law enforcement and national security records from the requirements of the FOIA. See 5 U.S.C. § 552(c) (2006 &

Supp. IV (2010)). This response is limited to those records that are subject to the requirements of the FOIA. This is a standard notification that is given to all our requesters and should not be taken as an indication that excluded records do, or do not, exist.

This completes the Service's response. The fees incurred in responding to your request are less than $50.00, and are not being charged in accordance with 43 C.F.R. § 2.37(g). Sincerely,

FOIA Coordinator
